How To Order

Specification, sampling, production, inspection, shipping

1. Send a specification

A drawing, a specification sheet or a competitor sample. Include the destination market, the indicative quantity and the date the goods have to be available.

2. Approve a physical sample

A strike off for a print, a handloom for a weave, a stitch out for embroidery or a finished pan for cookware. Colour is approved on a physical reference, never on a screen.

3. Freeze the specification

Construction, colour, sizes, packing, carton marks, barcodes and labelling go into one document. After the freeze a change is a change order with a cost and a date.

4. Production is checked against the retained sample

First production pieces are compared with the reference before the line runs on, and checks continue through the run.

5. Packing is verified and goods are consolidated

Inner and outer counts, carton dimensions, marks and barcodes are checked against the written packing specification, then several factories are consolidated into one shipment.

6. Documents are issued from London

Commercial invoice, packing list and shipping documents are issued by EVT Enterprise Ltd, registered in London.
